NEBOSH

A new platform for growth with system upgrade from ACUTEC

What They Do

NEBOSH (The National Examination Board of Occupational Safety and Health) an independent examination awarding board formed in 1979 which holds charitable status. Many thousands of candidates take the globally recognised vocational related qualifications every year.

NEBOSH qualifications are recognised and respected by employers in all sectors of the economy, national and local government organisations and provide the benchmark standard against which others are compared. They are offered by over 500 NEBOSH-accredited course providers throughout the UK and overseas and also hold Investors in People status.

The Brief

With student numbers rising to 35,000 in recent years, and further growth overseas predicted, NEBOSH needed to ensure the infrastructure of its computer network could cope with further expansion.

What We Did

Working in partnership with NEBOSH’s internal IT officer ACUTEC:

- ✓ Upgraded all systems, installing new hardware and software.
- ✓ Ensured uniformity across departments by updating all PCs to the same specification.
- ✓ Tested IT networks to make sure everything was running efficiently.
- ✓ Set up remote access connections to allow employees to access their work while overseas.
- ✓ Provided support for office based and remote access IT hardware and software.

From client brief to completion at NEBOSH’s employee base in Leicester was around three months. ACUTEC continues to provide proactive IT support for NEBOSH’s network and applications. We provide a daily health check report on all systems keeping the company in line ever changing working practises and legislation.
